

Using Chronic Disease Indicators to Support Heart Disease and Stroke Prevention
Jeff Armitage, Nebraska
Debra Wigand, Maine

Interactive Exercise:

Please review the handout provided and consider the questions below.
Discuss the questions and your thoughts among your colleagues at the table.
Report out by each table to the large group – What is the key take home message?

In General:

What do you think about this information?
Is there anything you can say about the data?

From the View of Health Department Staff:

How would you use this information if you were a state health department manager or staff member?

What are the strengths/weaknesses of this presentation of data for your use in program planning?

How can this information be used to identify and support a larger systems change?

Who are the key stakeholders for this information?

How can this information be tailored for use with each of those identified stakeholders?

How would the content vary?

How would the presentation of the information vary?

From the View of Stakeholders: Consider AHA staff, Organizations such as, Health care provider, Non-profit, Local Hispanic coalition, and Local Health department staff

As a partner, is this information of benefit to you?

Is it understandable?

How would you like to see the content vary?

How would you like the information to be presented?

In what way would you use this information?

Summation: